RED SEA FILM FESTIVAL 2025 COUTURE HIGHLIGHTS BY MAISON RAMI KADI

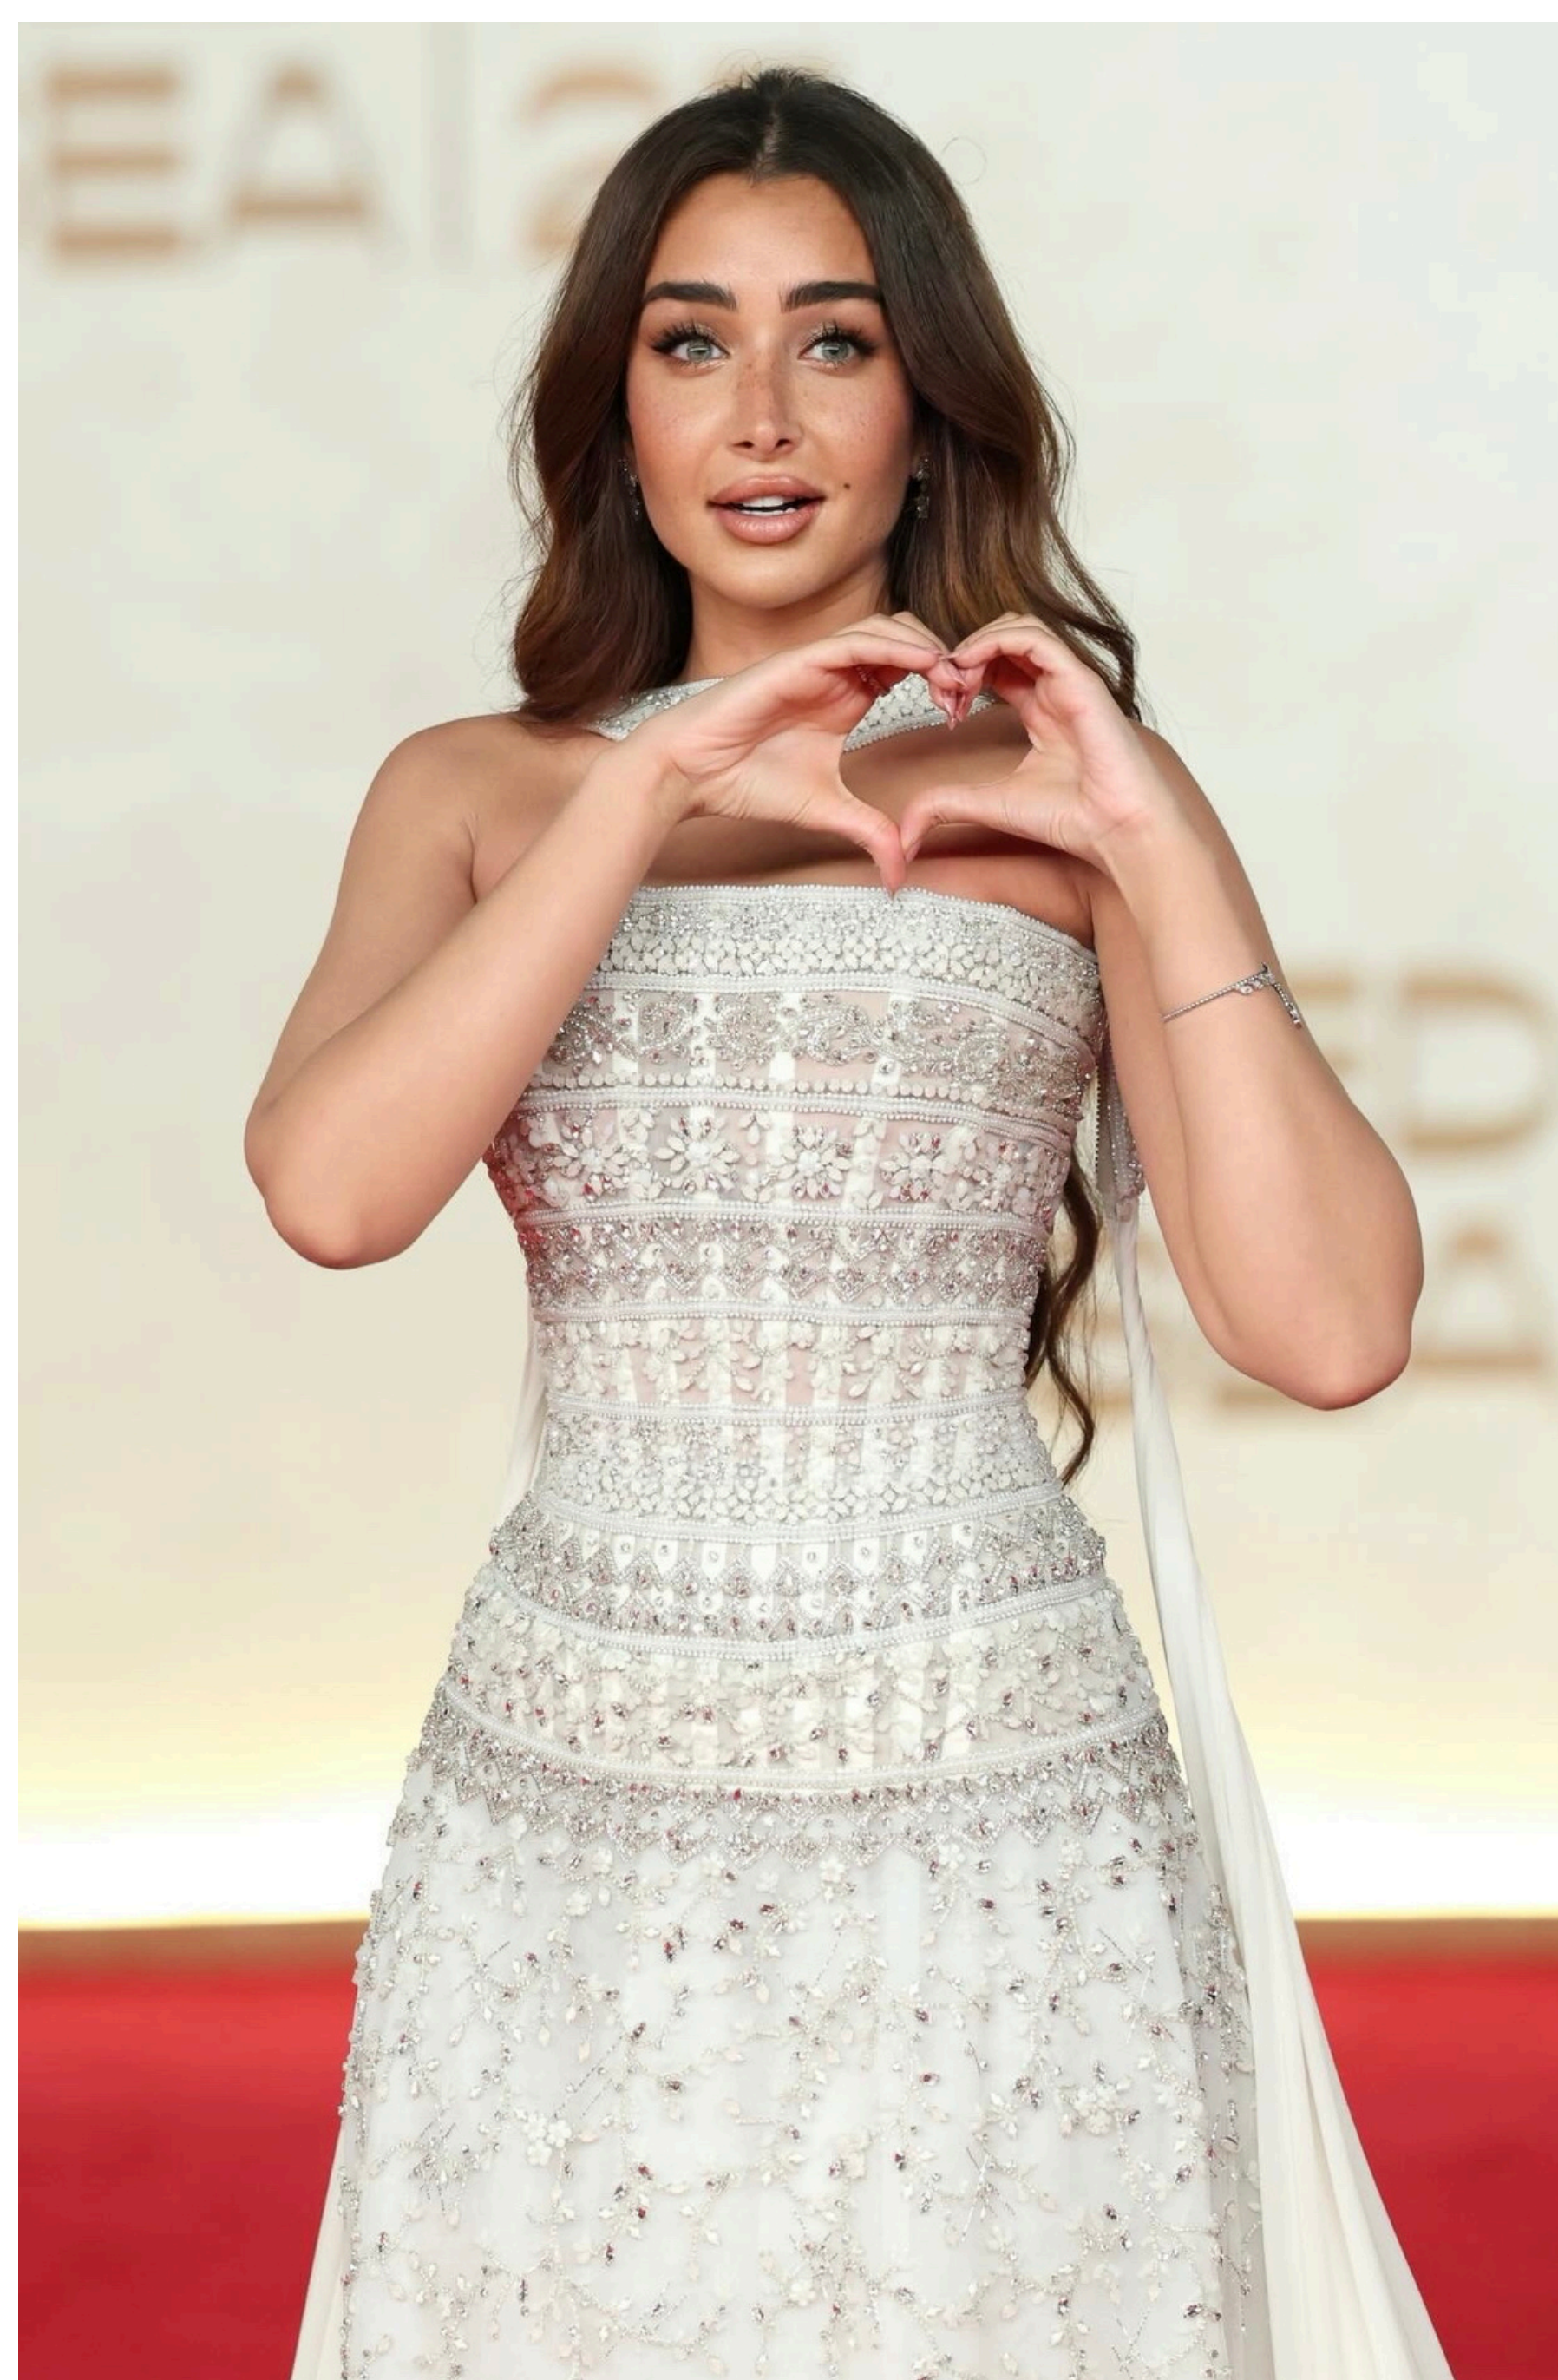

The Red Sea International Film Festival united the realms of cinema, culture, and fashion on an international stage in Jeddah, with Maison Rami Kadi standing prominently at its center. Through couture creations and specially designed custom looks, the Maison delivered a series of standout red-carpet moments, each defined by its signature craftsmanship and artistic precision. Worn by renowned regional and international figures, the designs brought a refined expression of elegance to some of the festival's most talked-about appearances.

Hanna El Zahed in Rami Kadi Couture

Hannah El Zahed attended the Red Sea International Film Festival opening in a custom Rami Kadi Couture strapless gown, featuring white embroidery, gleaming crystals, and an embroidered collar that brought a delicate, elevated touch.
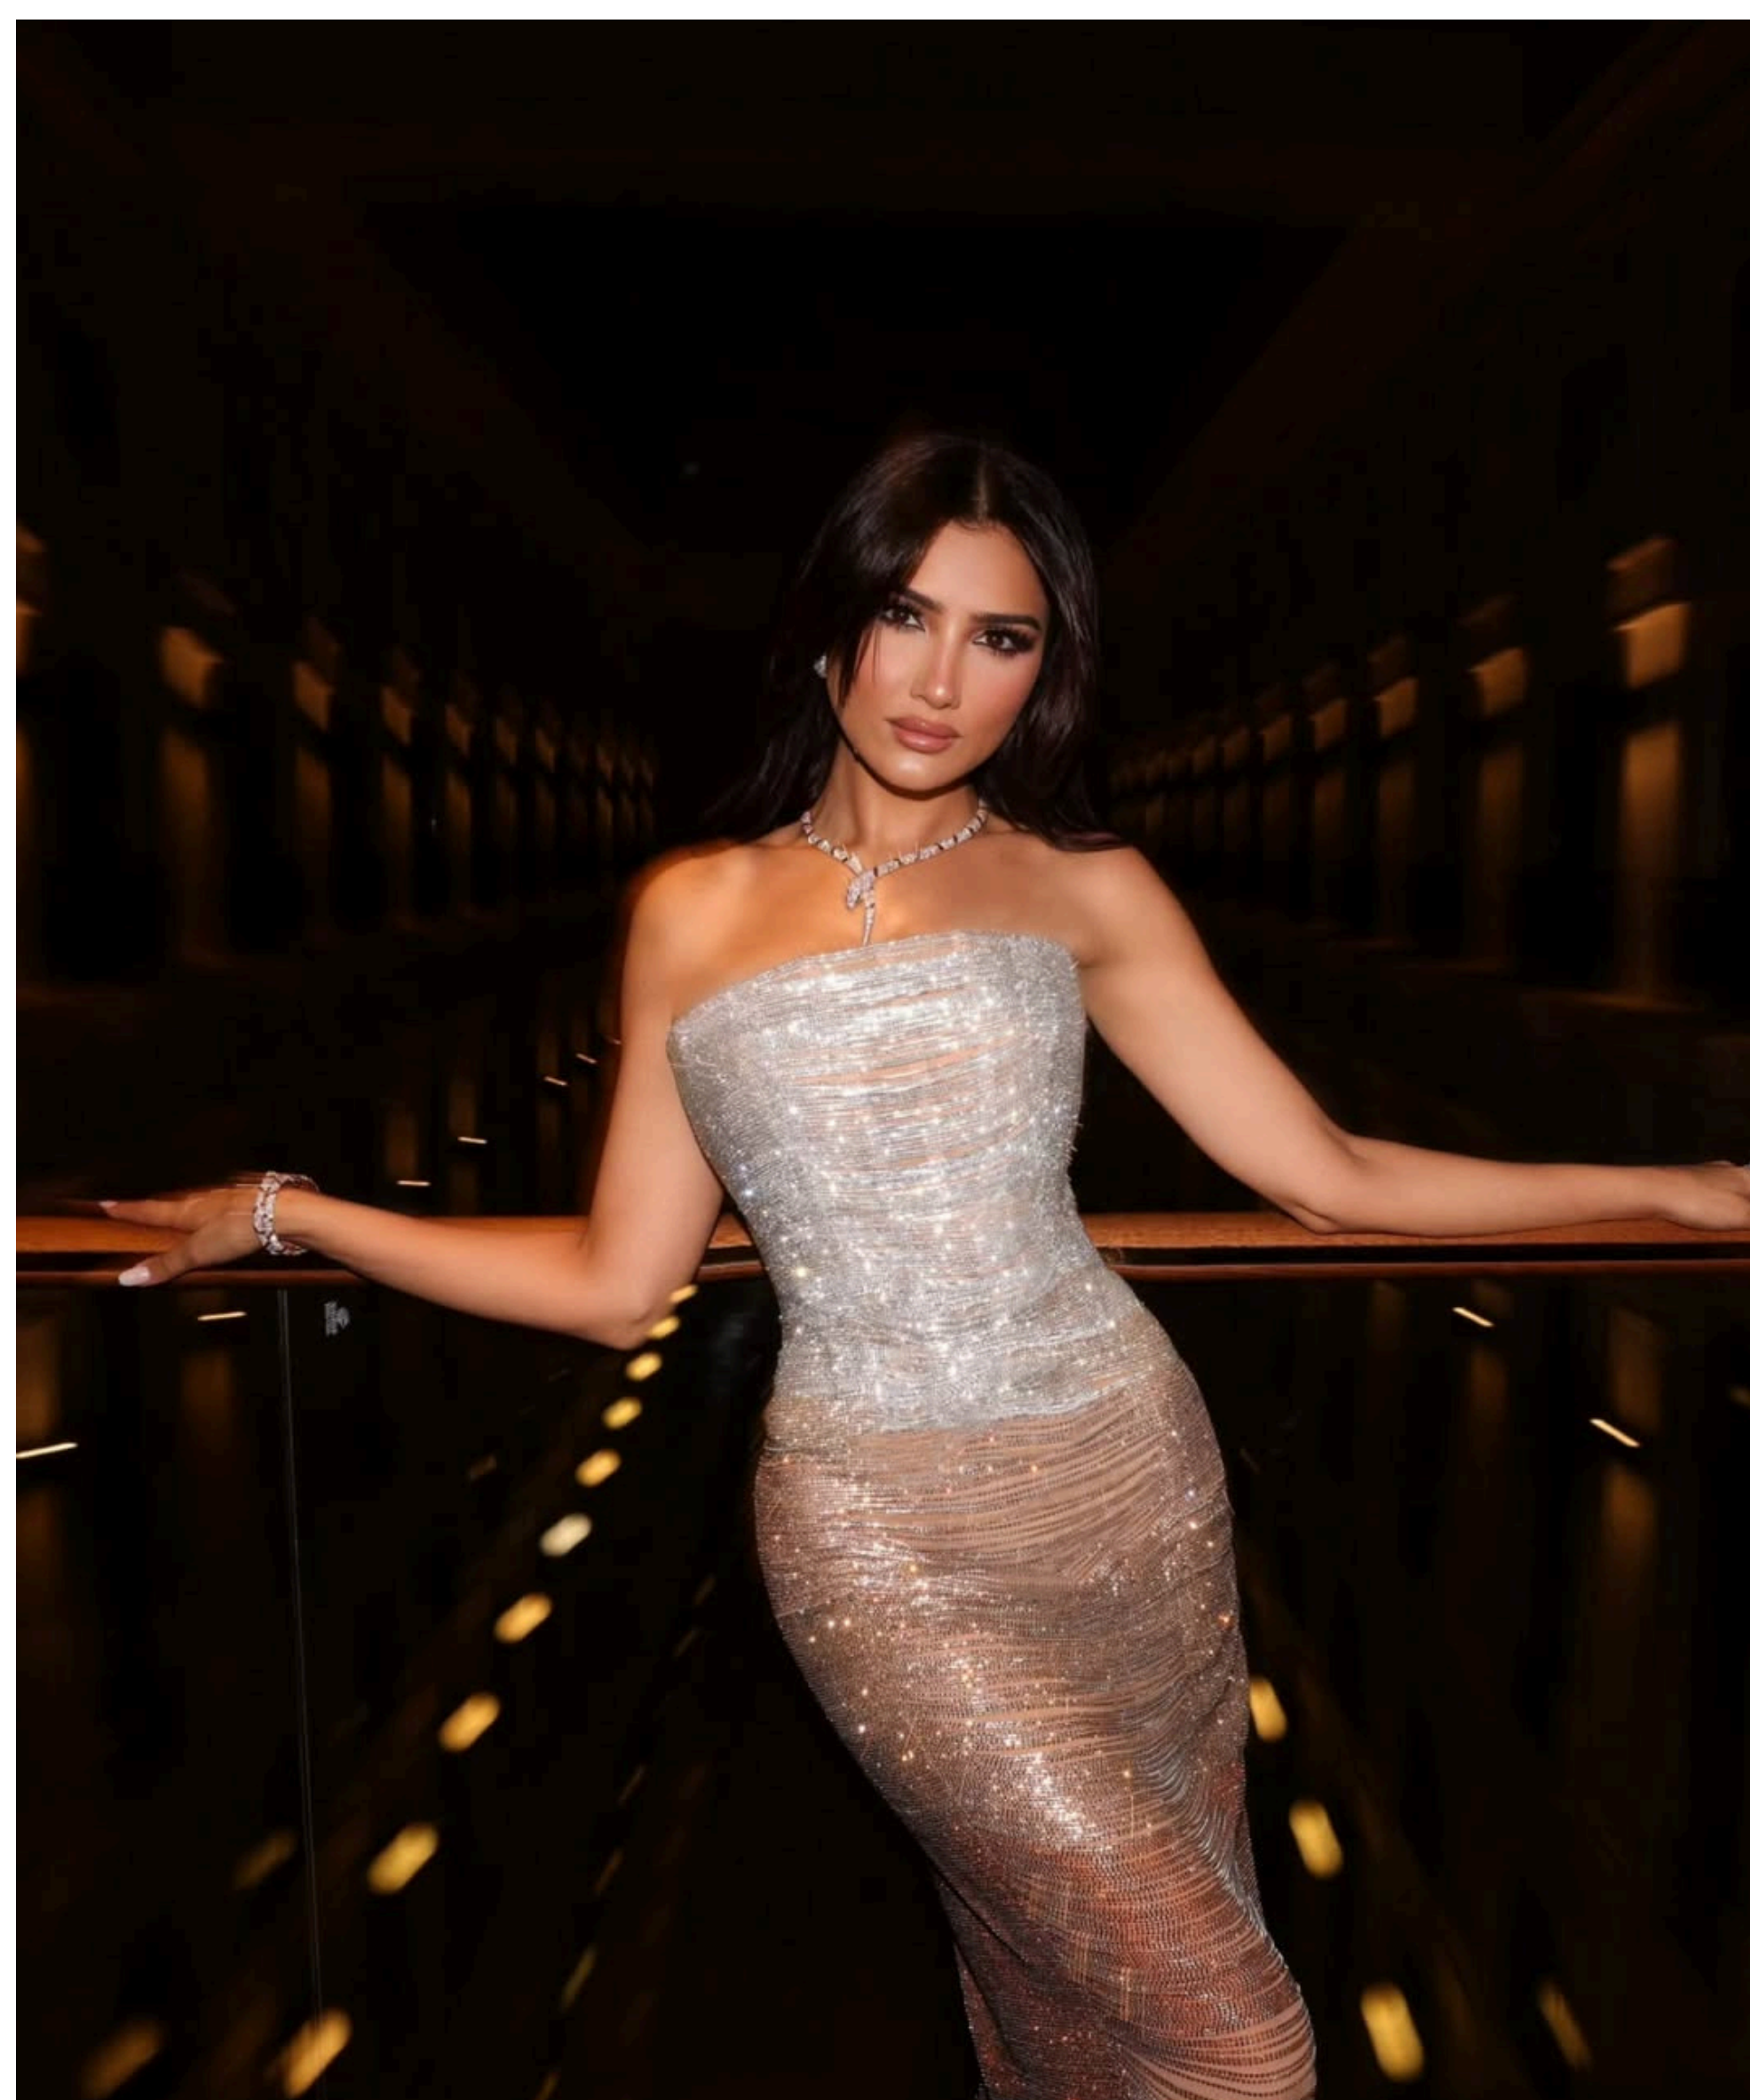

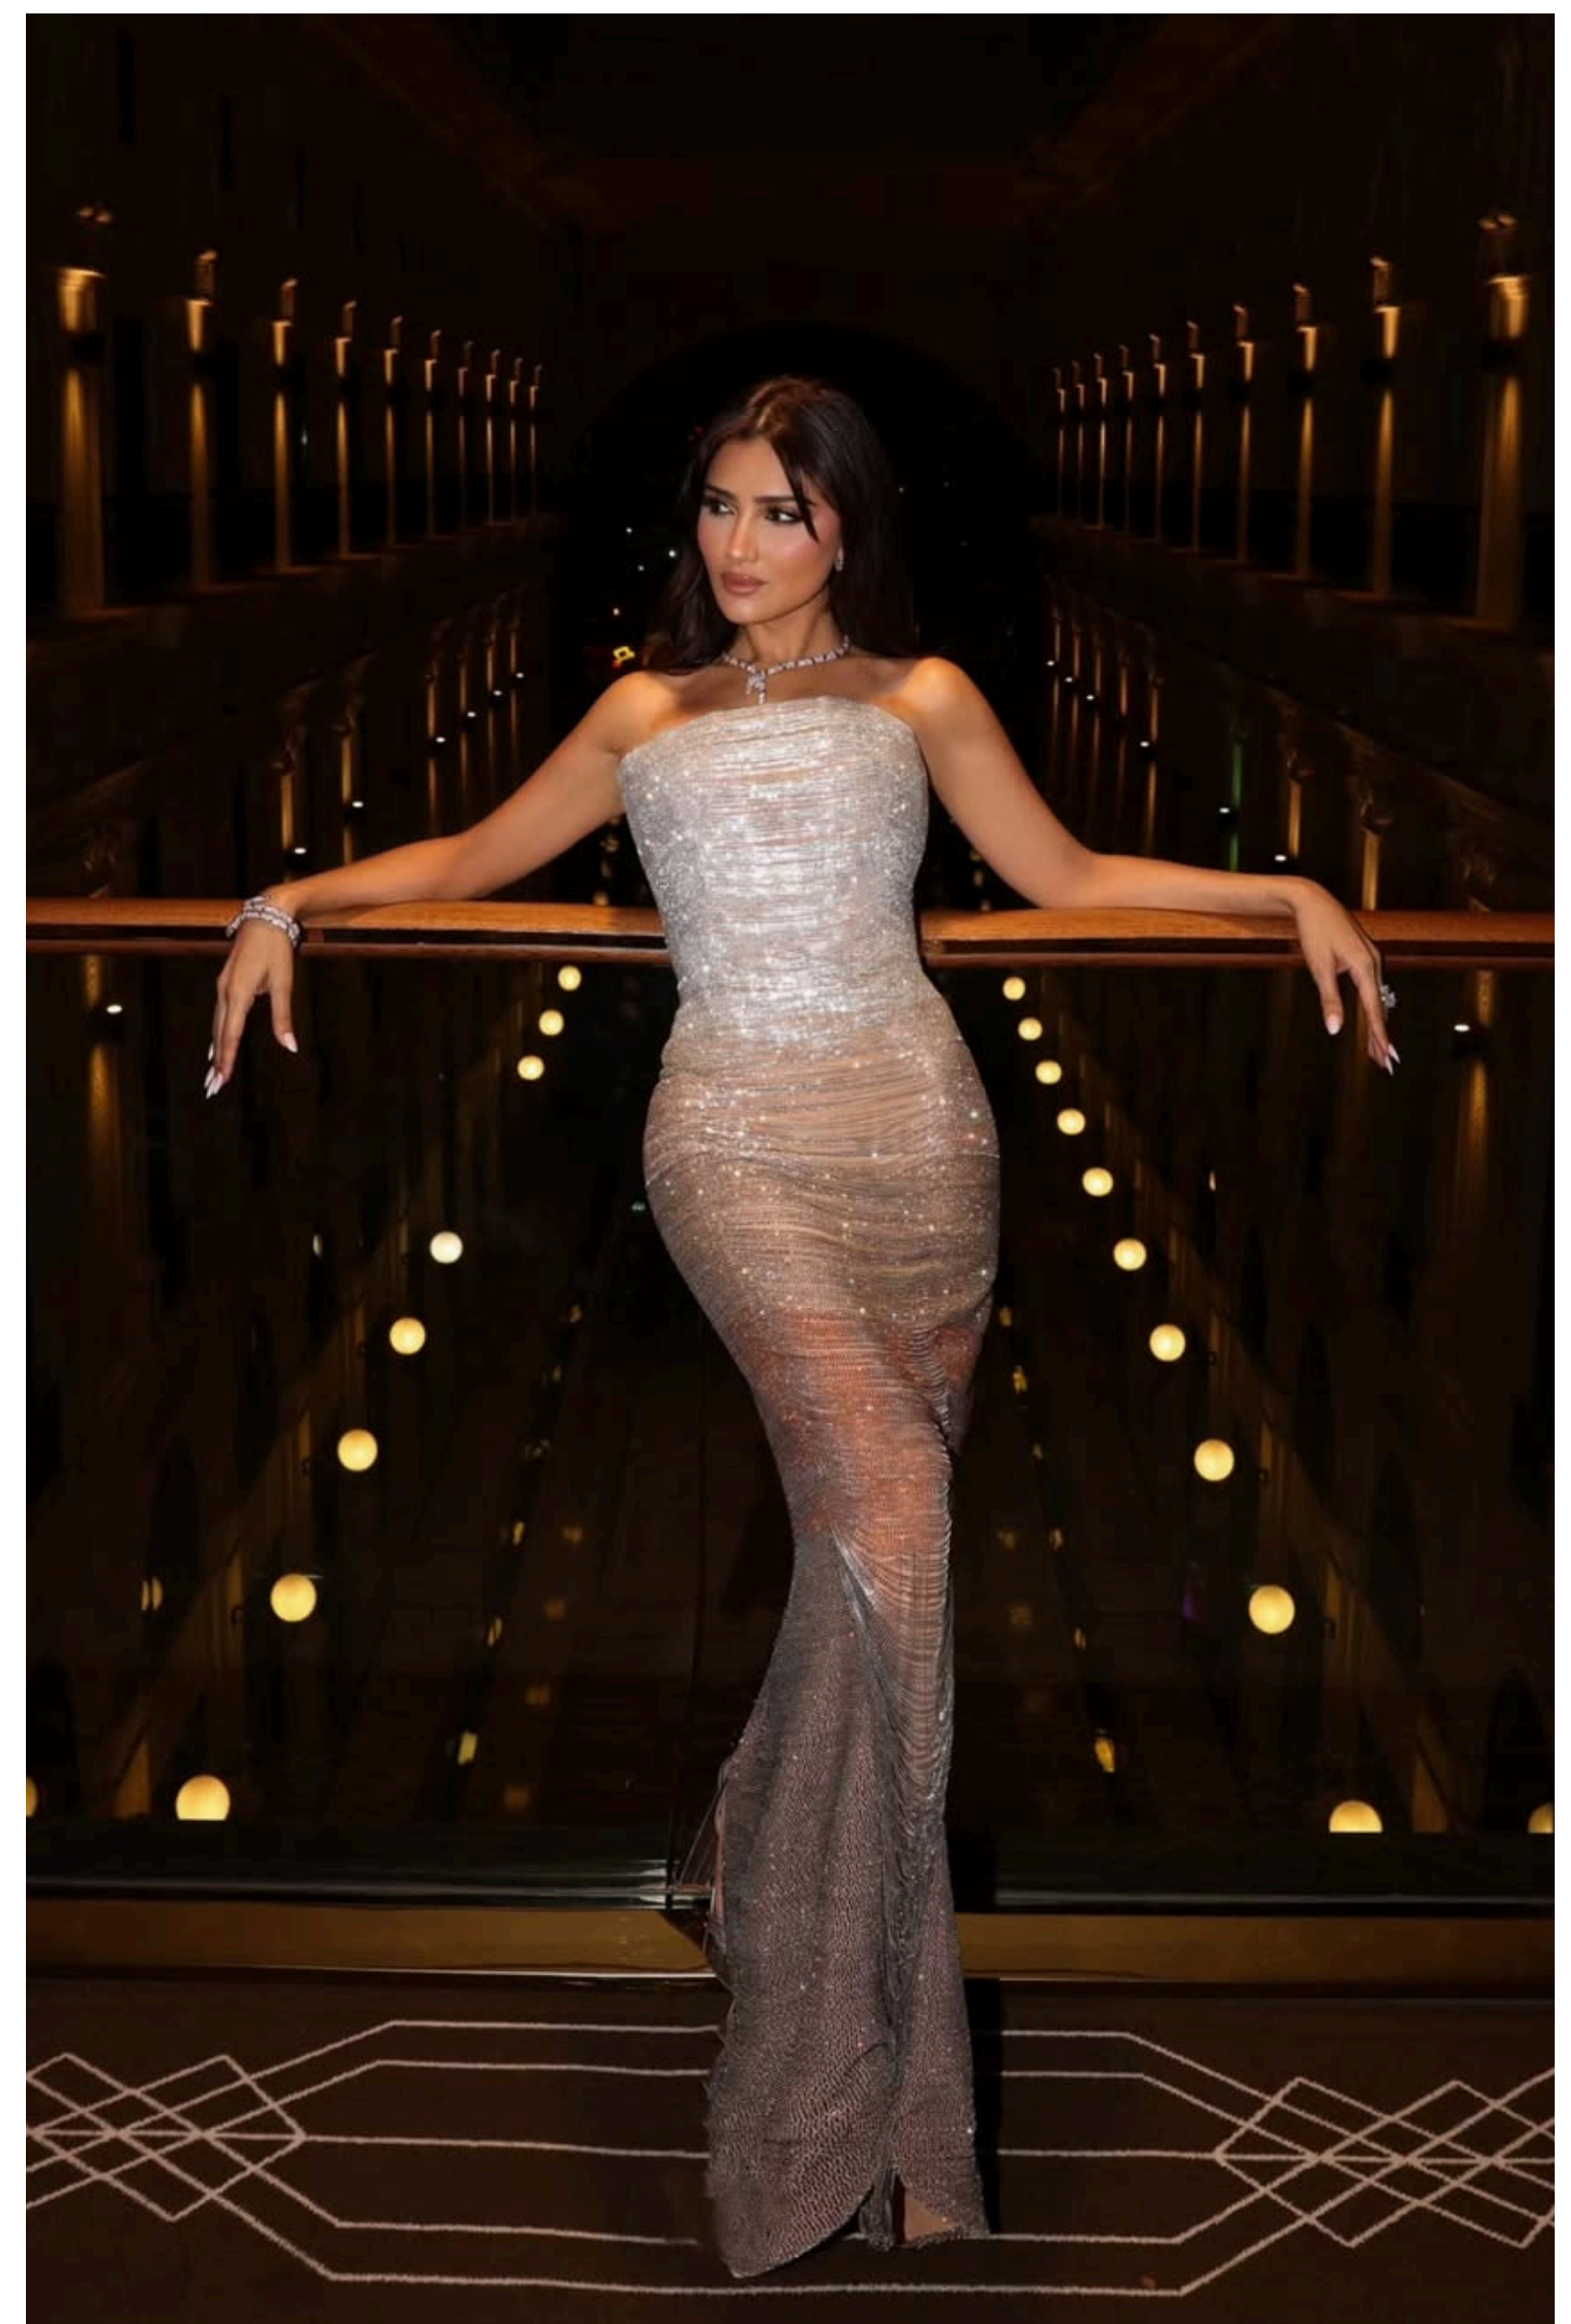

Mai Omar in Rami Kadi Couture

Egyptian actress Mai Omar attended the Red Sea International Film Festival Opening Ceremony in a Rami Kadi Couture ombré gown shifting from copper to gold to silver, fully embellished with cascading crystal tassels that brought fluid sparkle to her appearance.

Rahaf Alharbi in Rami Kadi Couture

Saudi model Rahaaf Alharbi stepped onto the Red Sea red carpet in a custom Rami Kadi Couture royal-blue velvet gown, featuring a fitted silhouette with off-shoulder straps and draping that radiated from the waist, shaping a sculpted and graceful look.
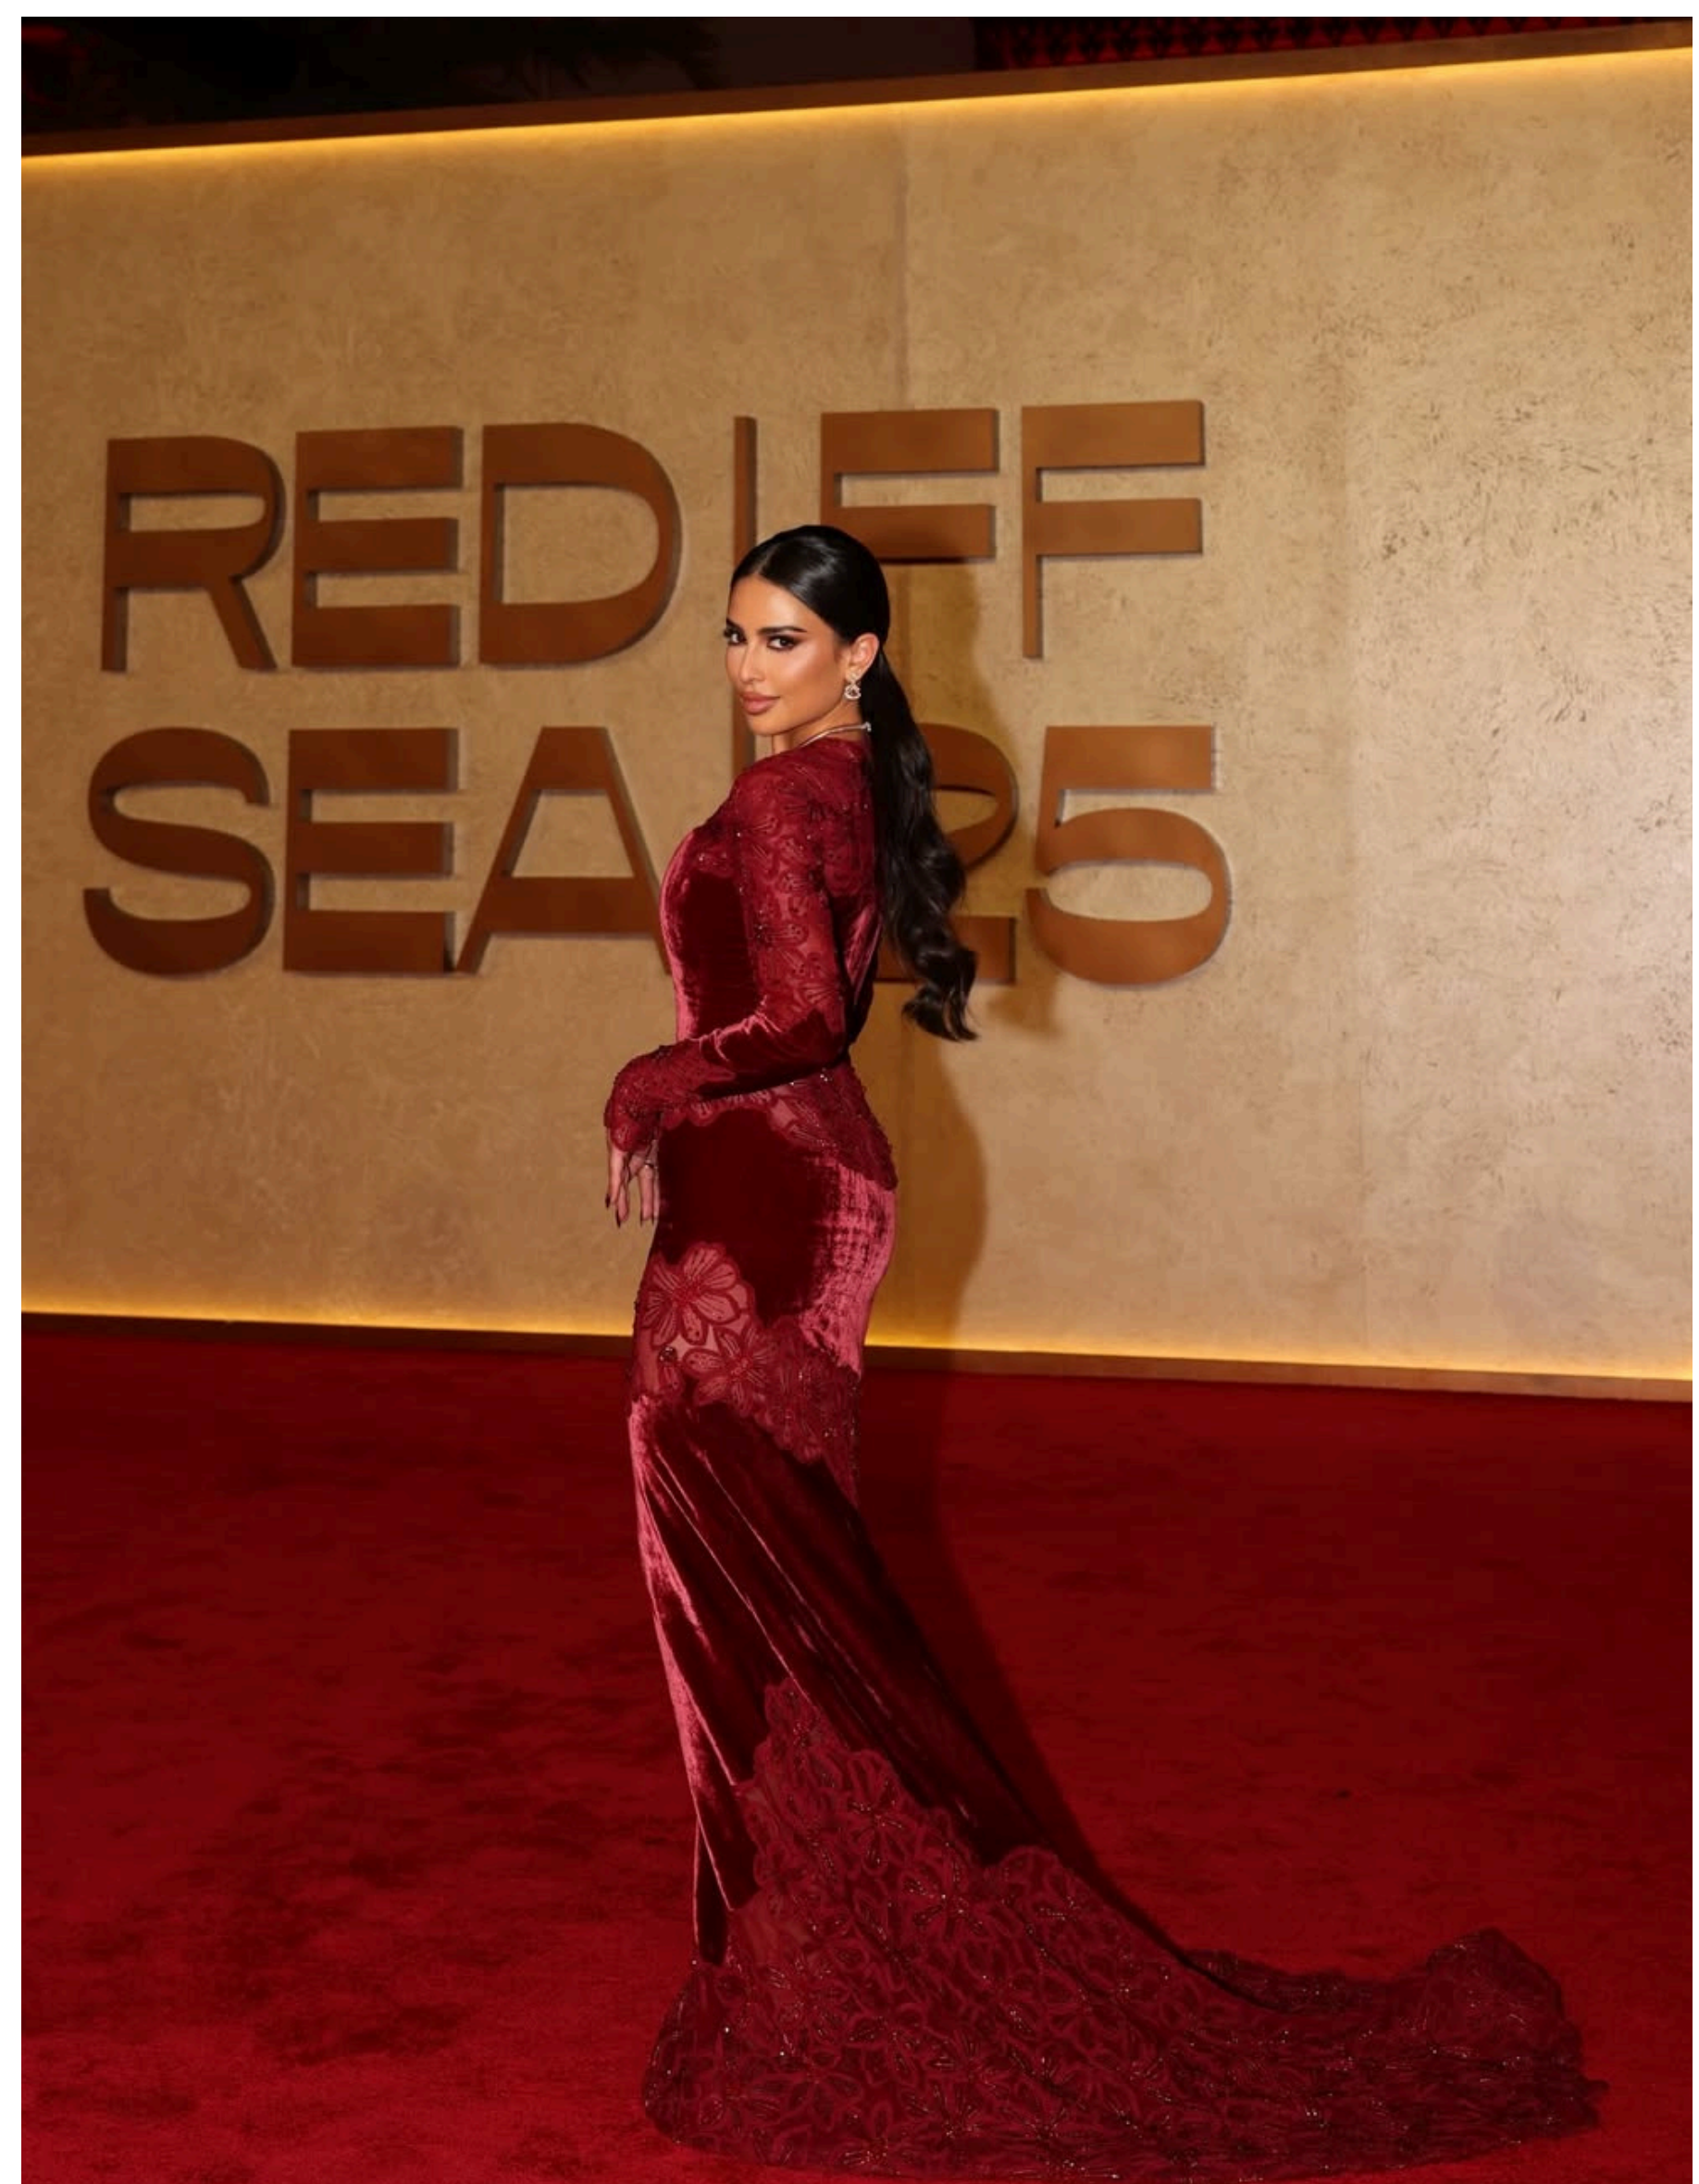

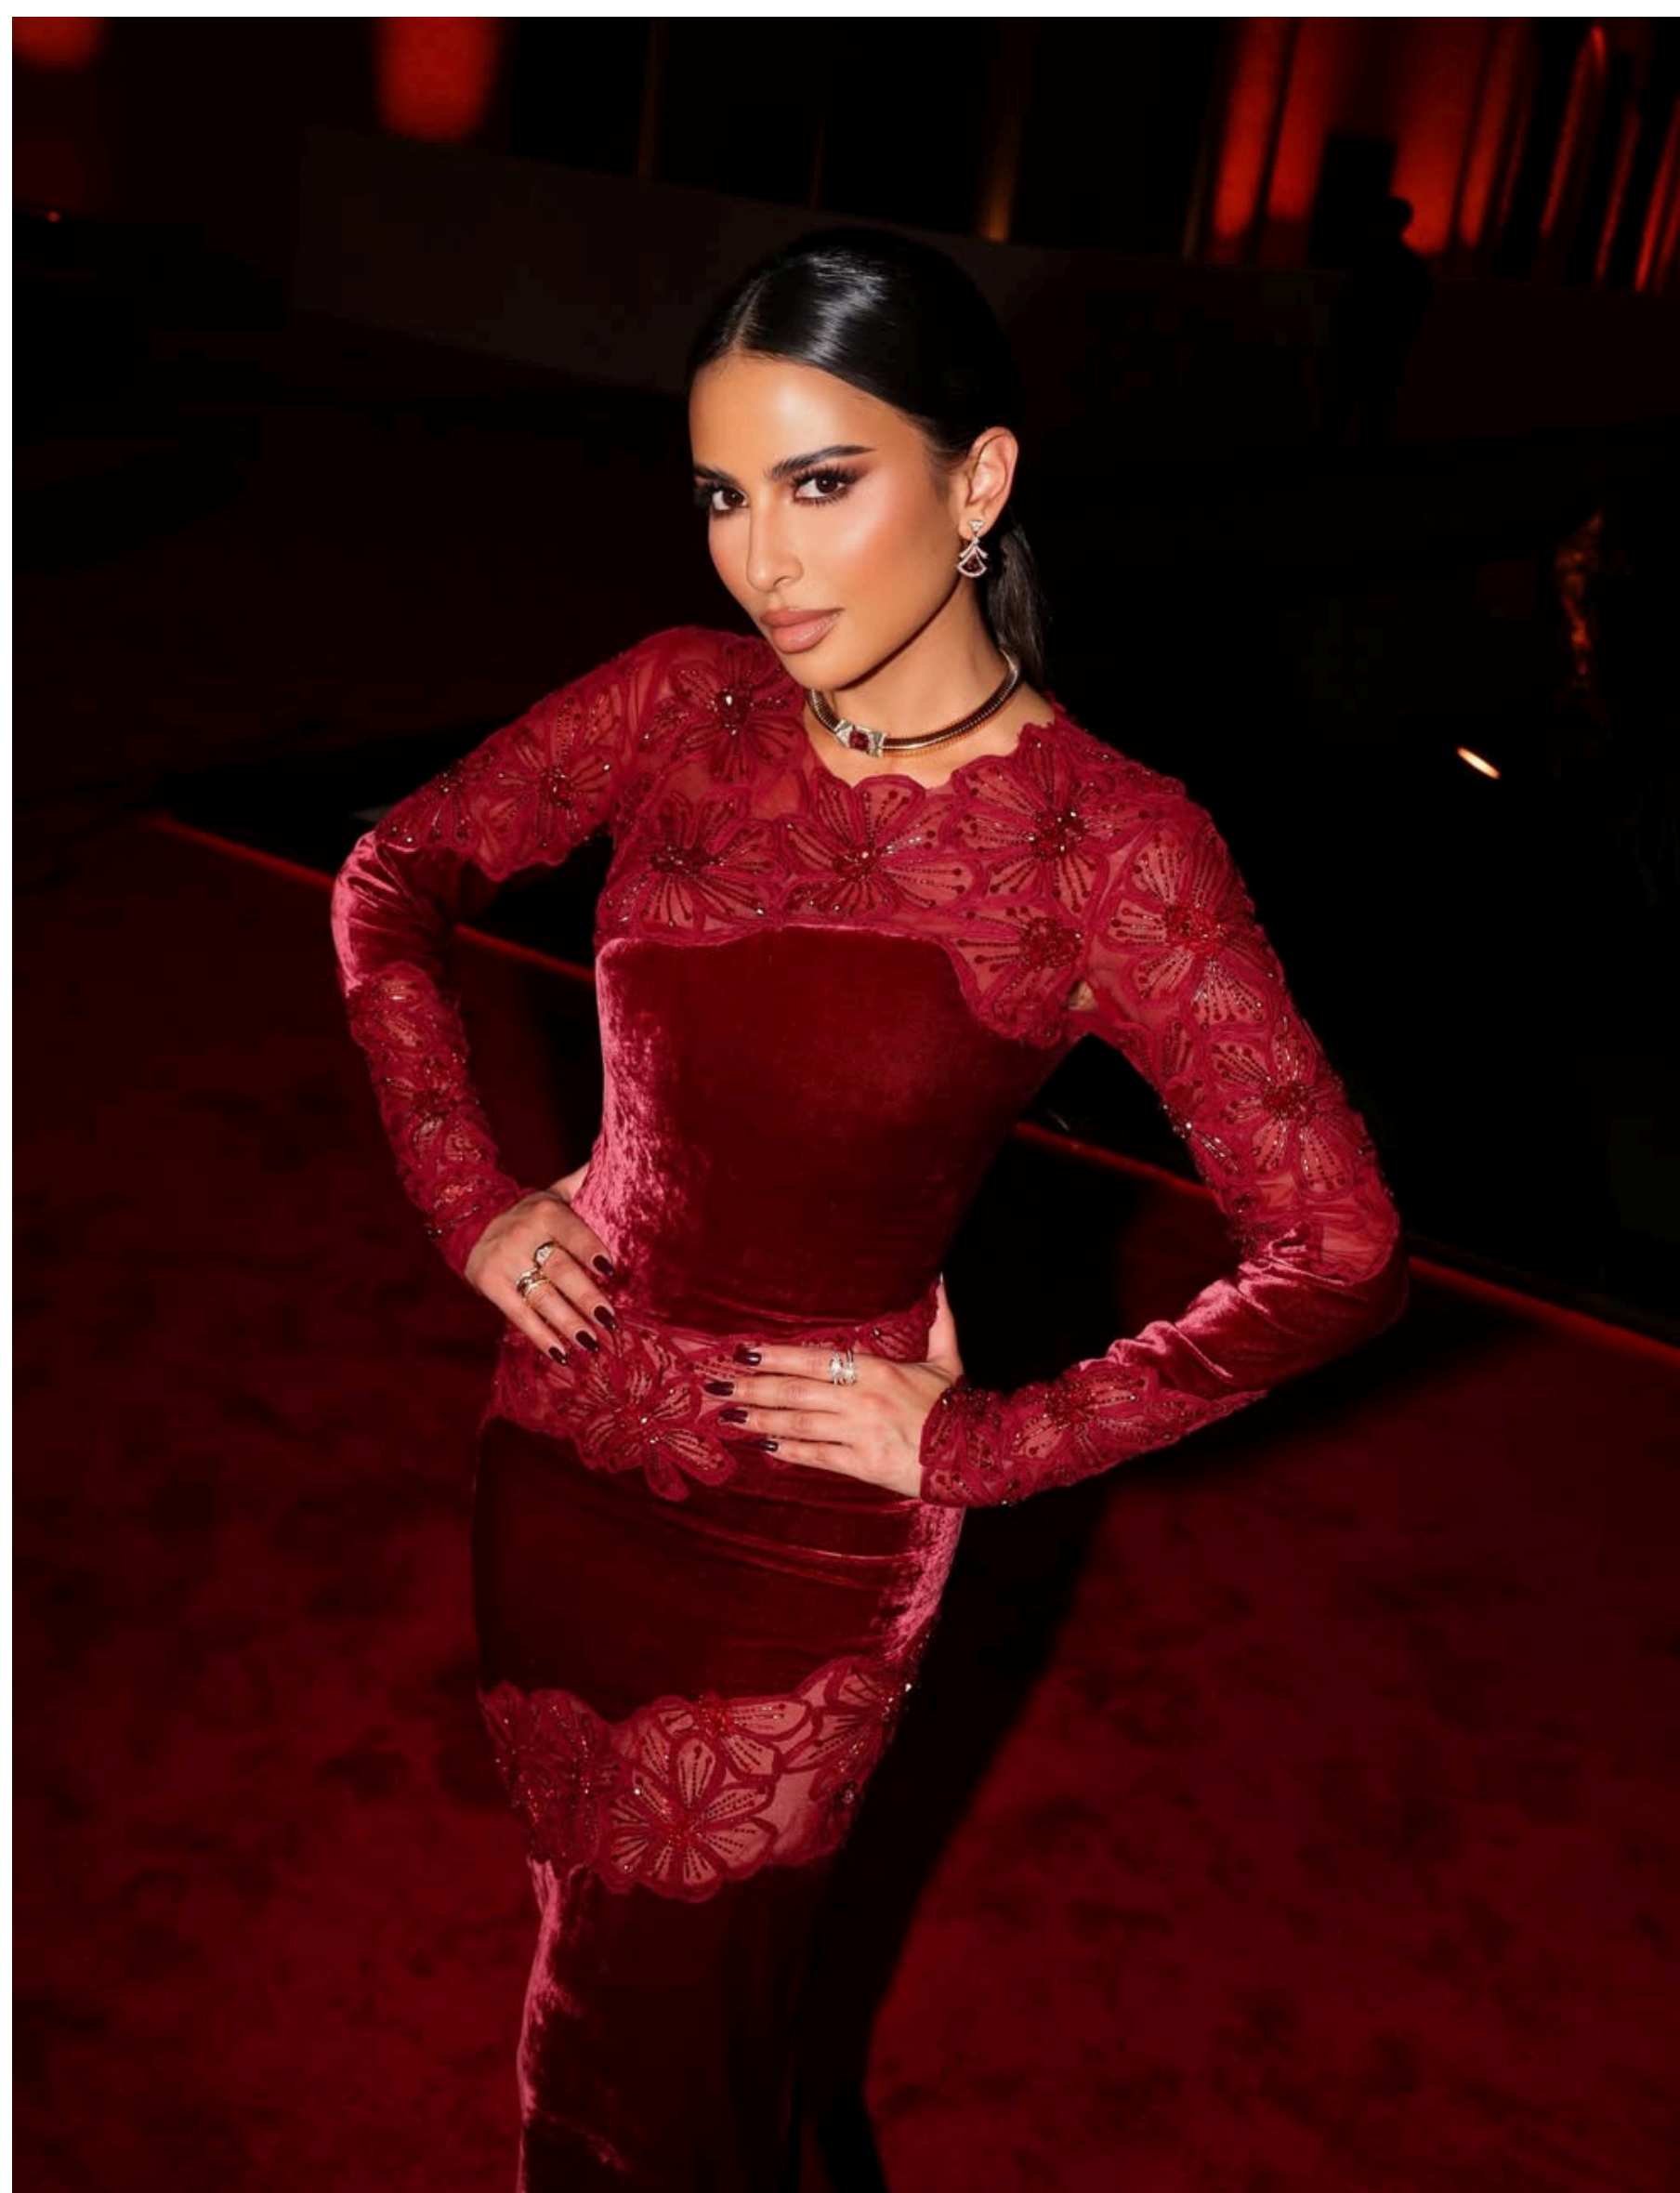

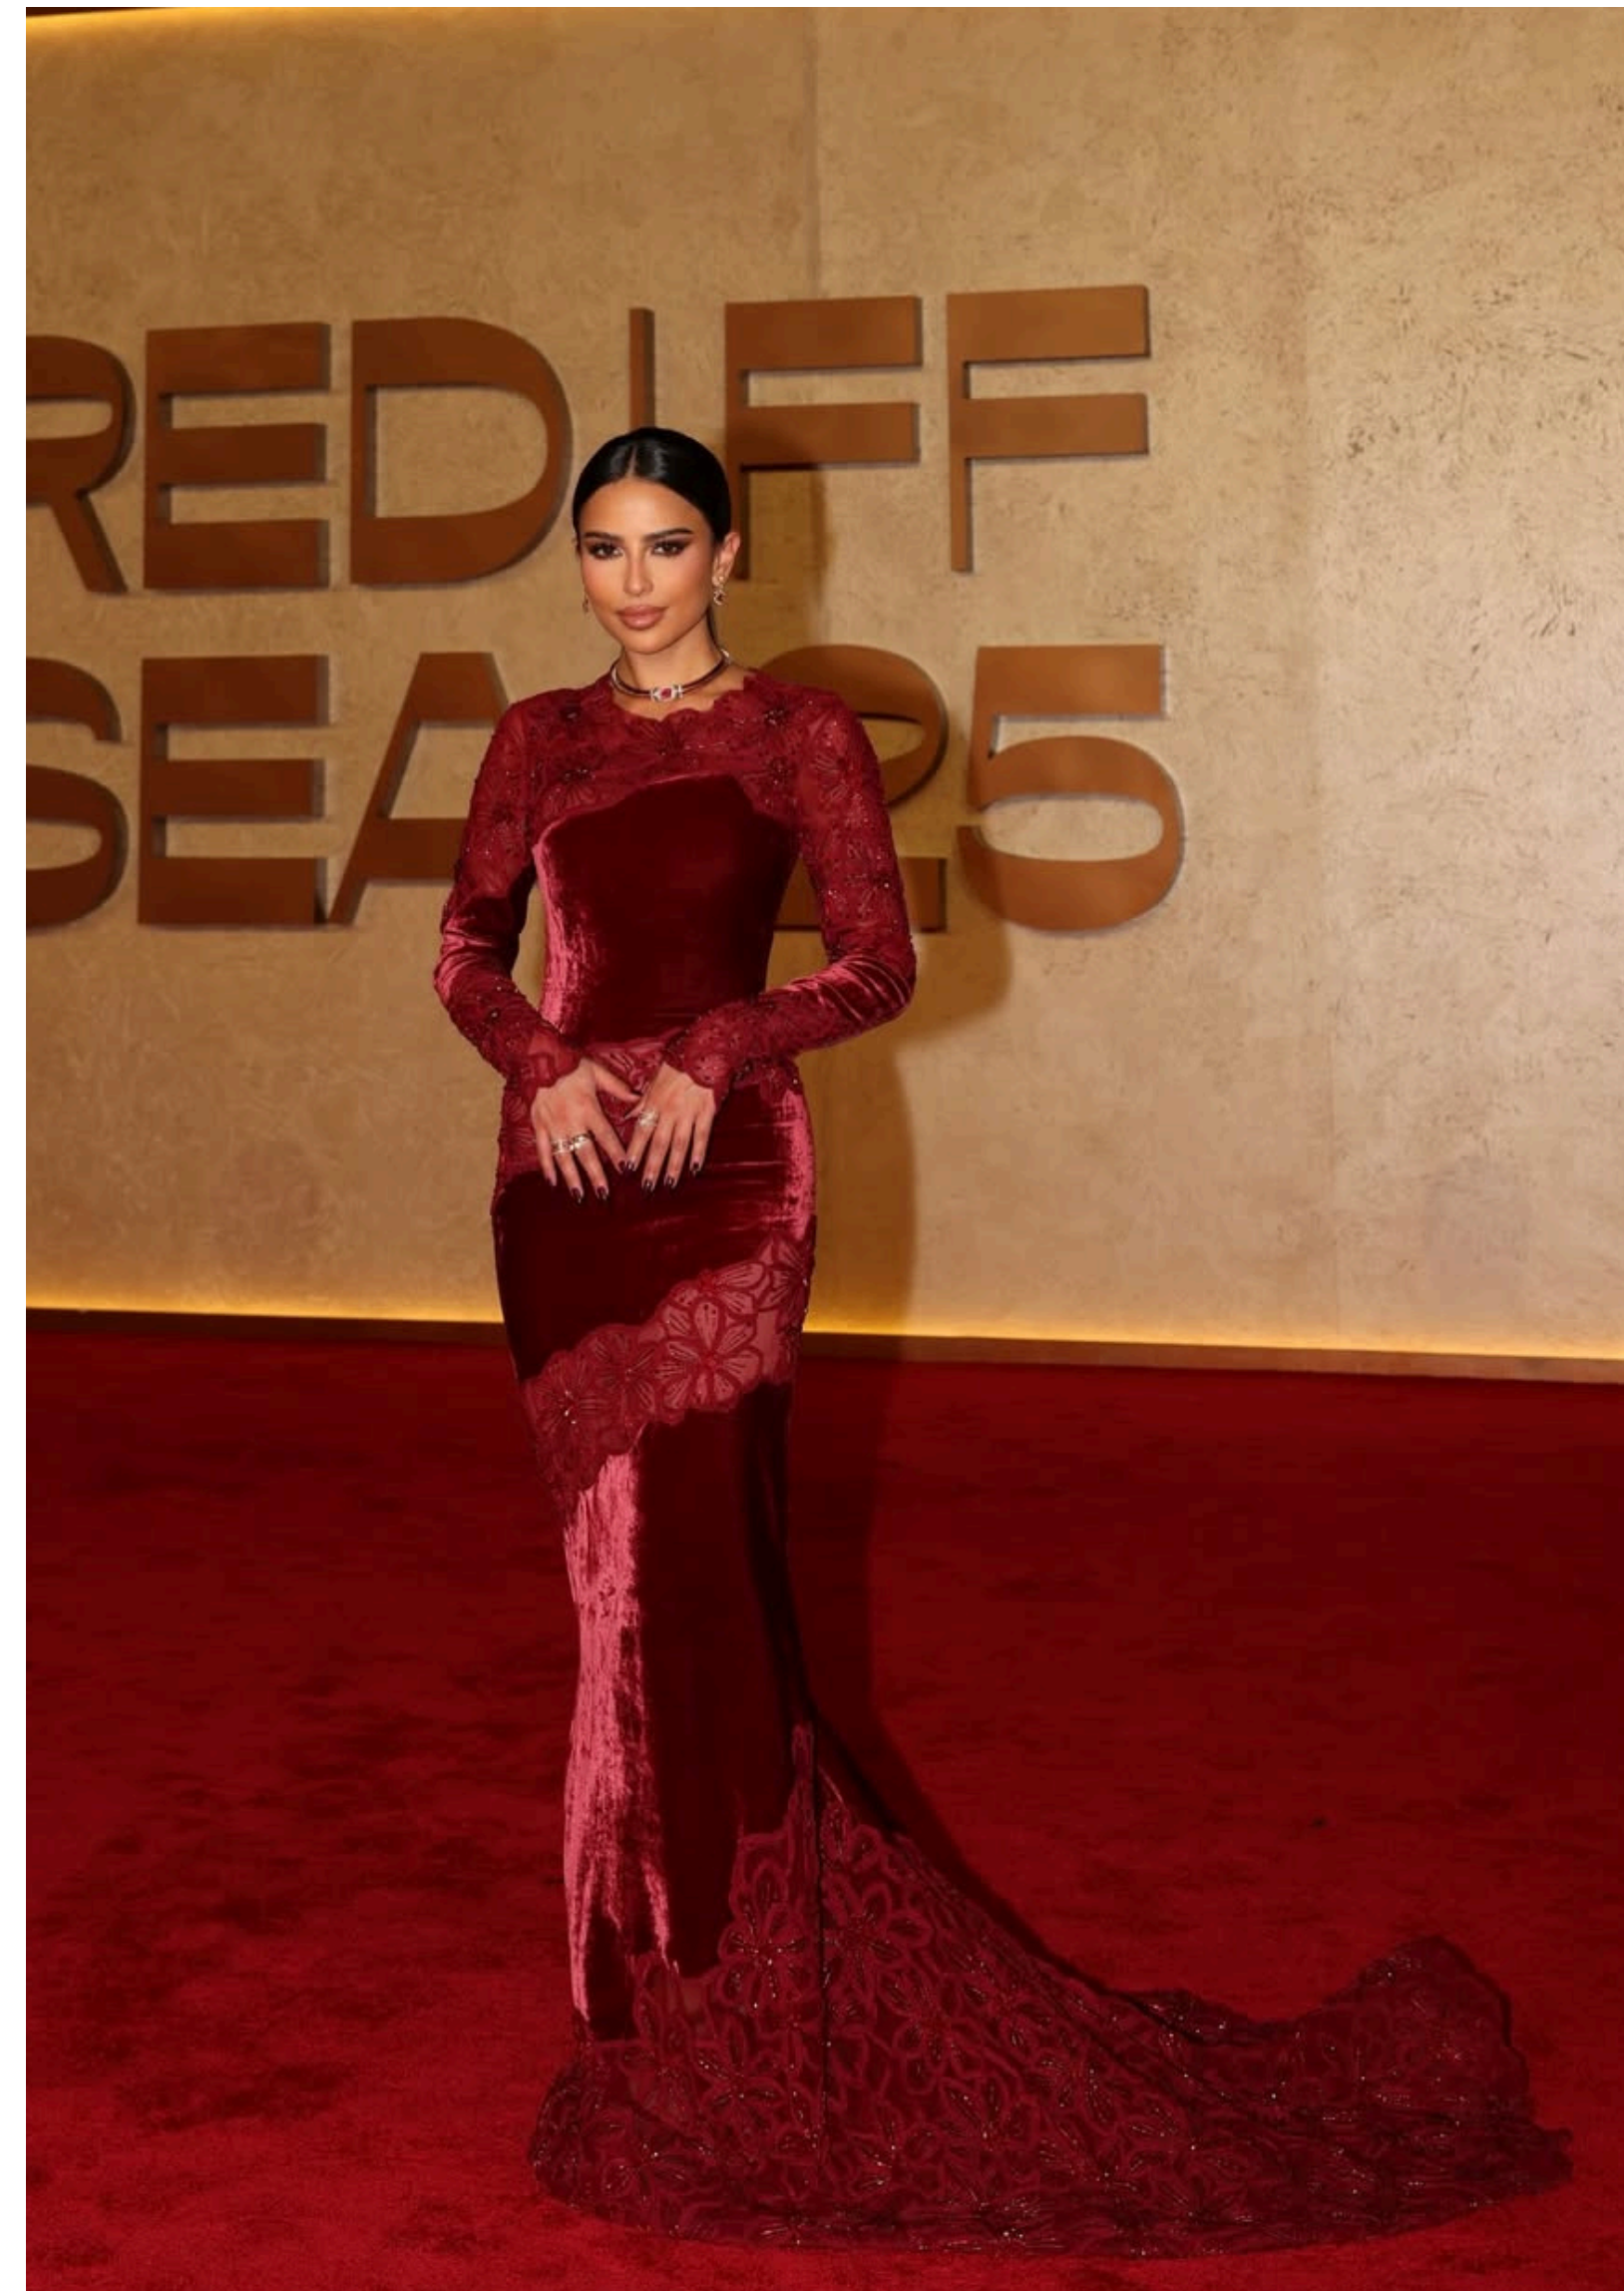

Lama Alakeel in Rami Kadi

Couture

Lama Al Akeel attended the Red Sea Film Festival Opening Ceremony in a cherry-red Rami Kadi Couture velvet gown from the latest Fall Winter 2025/26 "L'Éventail" couture collection, adorned with sculpted organza florals and intricate beadwork that added rich, dimensional elegance to her red-carpet moment.

Passant Shawky in Rami Kadi

Couture

Egyptian actress Passant Shawky attended the Red Sea Film Festival Opening Ceremony in a ribbon-red ombré off-shoulder Rami Kadi gown from the "L'Éventail" couture collection, fully embroidered with threads, beads, and sequins, creating a luminous, textured finish that stood out on the red carpet.

Reem Samy in Rami Kadi

Couture

Egyptian actress Reem Samy appeared on the Women in Cinema red carpet during the Red Sea Film Festival in a sleek black asymmetric off-the-shoulder Rami Kadi Couture gown, featuring draped detailing that twisted across the bodice and flowed into a smooth, fluid silhouette.

Saba Mubarak in Rami Kadi

Couture

Jordanian actress Saba Mubarak appeared at the Closing Ceremony of the Red Sea International Film Festival in a Rami Kadi Couture blue-haze silk dupion tailleur gown, defined by its structured bodice and voluminous draped mermaid skirt.

At this year's Red Sea International Film Festival, Maison Rami Kadi brought elegant couture moments to the red carpet through signature designs and custom creations. Each look showcased the Maison's craftsmanship and creative vision, adding a distinctive touch to the festival's style highlights.
