

Maison Rami Kadi: A Vision of Couture at the 2024 Red Sea Film Festival

The fourth edition of the Red Sea Film Festival in Jeddah was a dazzling celebration of film, fashion, and creativity, and Maison Rami Kadi once again solidified its position as a leader in nouveau couture. The festival's fourth edition saw a stunning array of celebrities wearing Rami Kadi's exquisite designs, each look a testament to the brand's signature blend of modern luxury and timeless elegance. From the opening ceremony to the closing night, Maison Rami Kadi was front and center, captivating the red carpet with its impeccable craftsmanship and artistic flair.

Celebrities like Aseel Omran, Raya AbiRached, Fatima Al Banawi, and Mai Omar stunned the crowds in Rami Kadi's latest collections, each one showcasing a unique expression of the house's bold vision. Whether through intricate beadwork, dramatic silhouettes, or patterned embroidery, these couture gowns elevated the glamour of the Red Sea Film Festival to new heights, leaving an indelible mark on the event.

Aseel Omran graced the opening ceremony in a petal pink crepe gown from the Fall/Winter 2024/25 collection. The gown featured a dramatic cape with cut-outs embroidered with crystals and braided tulle.

Raya Abirached turned heads at the Women in Cinema event, wearing a brown lurex draped gown from Rami Kadi Couture. The gown featured a flowy back skirt, exuding both elegance and effortless beauty as Raya captured the spotlight.

Fatima Al Banawi, at The Sandcastle screening, wore an oyster white crepe gown from the "Meydan" collection, adorned with sequins and knotted silk threads. Fatima's ensemble was a perfect reflection of both artistic expression and couture craftsmanship.

Mai Omar closed the festival in a mesmerizing ancient water mermaid gown from Rami Kadi Couture's "Mantra" collection. The gown, embellished with beads, sequins, and crystals, was a show-stopping moment on the closing night red carpet.

As the 2024 Red Sea Film Festival came to a close, Maison Rami Kadi's exquisite creations added an extra layer of glamour to the event. From Aseel Omran's elegant pink gown to Mai Omar's dramatic mermaid look, each appearance was a testament to the house's exceptional artistry and timeless allure.
